V-CARD

Federico A. Stea is a versatile litigator, whose practice focuses on products liability, catastrophic injury, wrongful death, and construction defect matters. Federico has a stellar track record in prevailing on motions and resolving complex legal issues on behalf of his clients.

Born and raised in Milan, Federico earned his J.D. from Italy's prestigious University of Pavia, graduating with honors. During his studies in Italy, Federico specialized in international commercial law, and represented University of Pavia at the XXI Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot, arguing before international arbitration panels in New York, Milan, and Vienna.

Federico continued his legal studies at Loyola Law School, Los Angeles, where he earned a Master of Laws (LL.M), with a specialization in civil litigation and trial advocacy. While at Loyola, Federico further developed his exceptional advocacy skills under the mentorship of Los Angeles County Superior Court's Presiding Judge, Hon. Daniel J. Buckley. Federico also worked as a research assistant to Professor Hiro Aragaki, focusing on federal and international arbitration law, and served as a board member for the Business Law Society and the Student Advisory Board.
